Calendar is a strong social tradition, a modern totem. It serves a sacred but naive purpose to win the battle over the daily chaos. Of course, it is a big fat illusion. Humanity will never overcome the randomness; we can not take control of the time. Nevertheless, calendars are among the earliest manifestations of culture. Their shape changed as the ages passed, but the essence is still the same—to organise time, to navigate us through time.

Calendars are changing with the development of technology. Right now at my sight I have several modern calendars fighting for my attention: my phone, my laptop, even in my old school notebook I have two calendars. Obviously, calendars will become more and more technological objects, like watches, but like for watches there will always be a place for beautiful and not necessarily functional things. iCal, no matter how well it is drawn, will never win the nomination “Most Lovable” over the hand-painted wooden calendar which was made 200 years ago.

As for me, calendars are a very personal issue. I create them, so no longer I can think that a calendar is just a simple utilitarian object (I know too much).

How do I create a calendar? Postcard with a calendar grid on it—this is not what I want to present to a client. I have nothing to say against the classic concepts, but it's getting pretty hard now to surprise anybody with just a beautiful picture. My partners and I always try to make an outstanding job. It's one of the core principles of our studio—do not make a trivial concept. As far as any of our design objects is concerned, the calendar should have a remarkable mnemonic touch. This means that it must have something that makes it memorable. Sex. (I just wanted to use this word here.)

Actually to come up with something original is not so difficult. If you are tuned in a right way, the only problem will be to overcome your own laziness. The biggest difficulties always arise at the moment of technical implementation. Production details will be driving you crazy. At this very moment there is no project of mine with the production of which I would be satisfied for 100%. I know how to improve any of my projects. We are fortunate enough that the calendar is not a chair; we don't have to try to meet the anatomical needs. It is not a calculator either, so we don't need to teach people how to use it. Since we always aim at the segment of "just interesting things", we can afford the luxury of disregarding the original classical form and function and give more attention to the process of involving the consumer.

A few boring details about the stages of our work on the calendar:

1. We try to start in spring. Creating the initial idea takes several weeks. All this time we do search for a unique essence, which mostly describes our client. The picture with the numbers—it's not something I want to give to the client. As I said earlier, we always try to create something incredible. Unfortunately, not all our ideas find the client's positive response. We don't give up. We just find another client. So, in the end every idea finds its perfect client.

2. Once the concept is formed and approved by the client we are immersed into the long process of selection of possible technical solutions. This phase sometimes stretches for several months. Working out the details, consulting the production experts, preparation to the production takes a tremendous portion of our time.

3. And finally, the production. Very important stage, where the smallest error in a moment can ruin the work of several months of your life.

The book you hold in your hands is a competition of brilliant minds in one specific industry. It's a search for the original solution in the field where these solutions were founded for ages. It is always a challenge, and only the most courageous and confident are ready to take it!

"There is neither a starting point, nor an ending point. Ideas have always existed, and they always will. Each invention gives life to a future one. Great Ideas are living among us; we just have to pause, look, touch and transform them into the next invention." Great Ideas last forever. This is the insight that has inspired the 2009 Pershing calendar "World Moving Ideas" and its celebration of the power of ideas. The calendar presents 12 universally known objects and shows how many of the things that surround us today exist on account of important inventions in the past. Every object includes a month of the year 2009, plus a description of the original idea that led to its invention. For example, the iPod owes its existence to Thomas Edison who invented the phonograph in 1878, whereas magnets are a direct consequence of the refrigerator, invented in 1748 by William Cullen. Dedicated to Pershing customers and produced in a limited edition, the calendar has been sent to Pershing prospects and opinion leaders.

Themes for the Ando Agenda 2010 are infinity, rhythm and the creation of time. The circular shapes symbolise the cycle of seasons and of our lives. The calendar allows you space to create your own week, and you can be as flexible with your dates as with the images of a kaleidoscope. The weekly kaleidoscope pictures in this agenda inspire curiosity and creative thinking, as they invite you to see beauty in everyday objects. As you open the perforated Japanese folds in the agenda, the original item used to make the kaleidoscope pattern is revealed. These items are related to specific events of the year, for example the image of a football in the week of the 2010 FIFA World Cup week. The celebration of the circle is completed on the cover, with a total of 360 kaleidoscope patterns. Red Dot Award; Communication Design, Category Editorial. Graphis New York: Golden Award, Design Annual 2011. European Design Awards: Golden Award, Category Calendar. One Show Design: Merit Award, Category Collateral Design. Kalenderwedstrijd: Award for Best Agenda.

Not only those who saw "The Age of Stupid" know, that it is time to change the behaviour towards the world people live in. People should start to save energy, ride bikes and act more sustainable in all parts of the lives. Therefore, the designers also spare the environment with the new stationery: Instead of wasting new resources, they recycle the already used. Misprints, proofs, incoming envelopes, letters, ice packaging -material which is normally thrown away-is branded with a new seal: "recyclingdesign by Nowakteufelknyrim". The calendar "recyclingdesign by Nowakteufelknyrim 2011" is part of the label.

PRODUCTION DATE: 2005
CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Ivan Krizan
DESIGNER: Petra Krizan
CLIENT: Croatian Motorways Ltd
NATIONALITY: Croatia

This was the Krizan Design Studio's proposal for the 2005 Calendar for Croatian Motorways Ltd., a firm that basically builds and does maintenance work on state highways and local roads in Croatia. The idea behind it was to make a "road map" of main Croatian highways and then show it in segments on 12 pages of the calendar, one for each month. A small cardboard vehicle would have been used for marking the days, and it would seem as it drives along the road. The proposal unfortunately was never implemented.

NATIONALITY: France

Each year Spicers Paper sends out a calendar as a piece of design that not only promotes different papers throughout the year, but equally expresses its commitment to the design industry in Australia. Whether in the name of beauty, nostalgia or practicality, the items displayed on the four walls say something about each. Seen through the eyes of four designers and four photographers, wall pays homage to these wall displays. The calendar is made up of a series of posters: each season has a typographic poster along with three photographic monthly posters. The entire piece was a set of posters, left loose, unbound, and folded down and packed between two embossed, hand numbered pieces of boxboard, held together with a rubber band.

The genus was originally described by Linnaeus in his 18th century work Systema Naturae [1]. The name is derived from the Latin corvus meaning "raven" [2]. The type species is the Common Raven (Corvus corax); others named in the same work include the Carrion Crow (C. corone), the Hooded Crow (C. cornix), the Rock (C. frugilegus), and the Jackdaw (C. monedula).

There is no good systematic approach to the genus at present. Generally, it is assumed that the species from a geographical area are more closely related to each other than to other lineages, but this is not necessarily correct. For example, while the Carrion/Cottared/House Crow complex is certainly closely related to each other, the situation is not at all clear regarding the Australian/Melanesian species. Furthermore, as many species are similar in appearance, determining actual range and characteristics can be very difficult, such as in Australia where the five (possibly six) species are almost identical in appearance.

The fossil record of crows is rather dense in Europe, but the relationships among most prehistoric species is not clear. Jackdaw-, crow- and raven-sized forms seem to have existed since long ago and crows were regularly hunted by humans up to the Iron Age, documenting the evolution of the modern taxa. American crows are not as well-documented.

A surprisingly high number of species have become extinct after human colonization; the loss of one prehistoric Caribbean crow could also have been related to the last ice age's climate changes.

The two main ingredients of this calendar are the form (of crow) and treatment (of typography). To begin with the form, it's the wholeness and simplicity of "single" colour "black" and the attached adages with the bird crow that inspired the designer to explore and exploit it as the form for this calendar. Moving on to the treatment, typography is the most "in" thing in graphic designing. It offers immense creative liberty and space to the designer and hence, the designer got tempted to use typography as the treatment for this calendar.

Use of just two colours, black and white is deliberate in the calendar. It is done so to maintain the originality of the form (the crow) that has been used. Though colour black symbolises darkness and sadness, the bird crow signifies intelligence and is meant to be a good omen in Hindu culture. Such contrast in maxims encouraged the designer to portray crow as the main form. Coming to the treatment, typography is the best option when one aims to use negative as well as positive space, effectively. Hence, the outcome of intermingling crow with typography is the artistic creation in front of you.

CALENDAR "CROW 2011"

TITLE: Calendar "Crow 2011"
PRODUCTION DATE: 2010 - 2011
CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Sudhir Kuduchkar
DESIGNER: Sudhir Kuduchkar

NATIONALITY: India

The calendar has two main elements: Crow as the main form and typography as the main treatment. Talking about the form first, it was no random choice to work on the concept of crow. Rather, since childhood the designer has been fascinated by this bird. There have been several facts about this creature that tickled his "interest" cells. Their symbolisation carries various contrasts which inspired him to play and explore the concept of having crows as the calendar theme. To complement the form, the designer wanted to adopt a treatment that would again say its own story and would be independent of explanations. Hence, came typography—a form of graphic designing where font type blends with the design and speaks for itself as a part of that design. The restricted use of colours is a deliberate occurrence to maintain the originality and simplicity of the concept.

CLIENT: Eberl Print GmbH

PHOTOGRAPHY: Susanne Mölle

NATIONALITY: Germany

A new wall calendar for the Eberl Media Group. To link 150 years of tradition and an ultra-modern company. Strichpunkt co-operated with management to develop a new corporate structure, name and image. The corporate design plays with exactly-positioned yet versatile typography. The example depicts the 2010 calendar which celebrates another company tradition: that of cheese production, staged by the entire printing competence of Eberl on 24 pages—it's a good thing the word chEEsE has three Es—one for Eberl Media, one for Eberl Print and one for Eberl Online!

WALL CALENDAR 2006

TITLE: "Non Plus Ultra" Wall Calendar 2006

DESIGN AGENCY: Strichpunkt

PRODUCTION DATE: 2005

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Kirsten Dietz, Jochen Rädiker

DESIGNER: Susanne Hörner

CLIENT: Papierfabrik Scheufelen GmbH + Co. KG

NATIONALITY: Germany

The anniversary calendar for Papierfabrik Scheufelen. Offset print as detailed as the best lithographics from 1855. Technical advance doesn't always mean progress: current printing techniques today are incapable of achieving the fineness of lithographics from around 1850 until 2005, that is using graphic finesse and elaborate technology. Strichpunkt highlighted original chromo-lithographs from a collection by Prof. Kurt Weidemann for the Scheufelen 2006 wall calendar. Supplemented by a contemporary design in white on white in various refinement techniques and produced with up to twelve printing colours per sheet, the Scheufelen calendar presents the non plus ultra in modern papermaking, reproduction and printing art—not least in the art of graphic design. The calendar was sold out within only a few days.

2009 wall calendar for Papierfabrik Scheufelen. A calendar, each of whose sheets is as individual as each person: impossible? Possible! Strichpunkt developed a calendar for 2009 which was printed in 2,009 signed copies and included 24,108 unique items: unique sheets were composed from 12 motifs each on the elements of fire, water, air and earth as well as love. More than 1,500 variants were run through the computer before the design principle was finalised. 50,000 individual sheets were then produced in 48 special colours and 12 refinement techniques in an offset printing process with the best ones chosen and bound as calendars. A unique experiment with a unique result. Partners: Eberl Print in Immenstadt and Verlag Hermann Schmidt in Mainz.

PRODUCTION DATE: 2008
CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Ben Casey
DESIGNER: Li Rui
CLIENT: BBC Wildlife Fund
PHOTOGRAPHY: Gettyimages
NATIONALITY: England

2009 has been declared by the United Nations as the Year of the Gorilla. However, in this year, there are as few as 720 mountain gorillas surviving in the wild. To raise awareness and support for this cause, the Chase designed a fundraising calendar for BBC Wildlife. This calendar confronts people with the haunting statement to never forget the face of our distant cousins and is supported with the graphic idea of a human-like portrait, fading with the passing months, to a final ghostly picture—almost forgotten with a glance. The calendar is loosely bound together with an ever-lasting silicone band that perfectly correlates with each date, of each month throughout the year.

The BBC Wildlife Fund is working flat out to help save endangered species all around the world. Why the haste? Because of the fearful statistic that almost one in four mammals face the grim prospect of disappearing forever.

This limited edition calendar creatively demonstrates the brand's central commitment to innovation, which is also expressed by the company's new pay off, "Moving Idea". It showcases twelve quotations by noted figures, drawn from both scientific and political spheres, which shortsightedly dismissed inventions and ideas which ultimately led to fundamental advances in the history of humanity. The calendar's images contrast with the pessimism of the forecasts, celebrating the beauty of ideas, the courage of the innovators, and faith in the power of the human mind.

POST-IT NOTES CALENDAR

TITLE: Post-It Notes Calendar

PRODUCTION DATE: 2007

DESIGNER: Andrei Slobtsov

NATIONALITY: Russia

Post-it notes are present in nearly every household around the world. The concept of the Post-It Notes Calendar is simple—create a calendar grid and mark the days corresponding to the month. This versatile, DIY calendar can be placed on walls, ceilings, mirrors, refrigerators or any other adhesive-friendly surface. The easiest part will be filled up each day with things you don't really want to do.

CALENDAR "BACK TO THE BASICS"

TITLE: Calendar "Back to the Basics"

PRODUCTION DATE: 2005

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Sudhir Kuduchkar

DESIGNER: Sudhir Kuduchkar

CLIENT: Purvi Sanghvi

PHOTOGRAPHY: Vector

NATIONALITY: India

The prime motto of this calendar, focusing on the terracotta jewellery design, is a salute to the exemplary skills of the Jewellery designer, Purvi. To maintain the originality of her creations, the actual jewellery pieces have been redrawn. The colour group has been kept tertiary, on purpose, to maintain the sync with the original creation. To further augment the elegance of the creation, the calendar has been screen printed on cream coloured paper. For the treatment, typography is a deliberate choice as it is a very contemporary form of graphic designing and perfectly complements the artist's jewellery creations. Hence, the calendar is an attempt to feature "the earthly context" of every artistic impression.

PRODUCTION DATE: 2008
CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Eugenia Balabanova
DESIGNER: Eugenia Balabanova
CLIENT: Creative Group "PressCentre"
NATIONALITY: Russia

The calendar was made for self-promotion of "Press Centre" Creative Group—a small team of professionals in graphic design and copywriting from Ufa, Russia. The calendar was made of beige & red cardboards with printed month cards inserted into slot on top of the construction. In the back of the construction there is a plaque with client's contacts and logo. Month cards contain Russian names of months typographically built from digits. Underneath month names there is the calendar grid. One could switch or discard the month cards as well as replace them with some personal stuff. This way the calendar works as an architectural handmade photo frame; thus its life is not limited for only one year.

DESIGNER: Sudhir Kuduchkar
CLIENT: Torrent Pharmaceuticals Limited
PHOTOGRAPHY: Vector
NATIONALITY: India

This calendar titled "Mosaic of Life", highlights the concept of Tessellation—a collection of plain forms without overlapping and spacing in between. Elaborating, every colour symbolises a particular emotion/ feeling. In the calendar, the differently coloured squares and circles represent the various emotions of a human, which when taken together make the "mosaic of life". To complement the liveliness of life, the numbers are treated with typography. The unique high point of the creation is the use of layers of papers. Various types of papers are used for different months. Each page has a distinctive identity. On the face January and February Month seem to be on the same page. However, the fact is they are two separate pages with different effects and colour treatments. The same is the case for each pair of months. Feel it to believe it!

Sweet mini calendar, 4x5.25", laser printed on smooth white #80 card stock. Each set comes with matching 1" magnet. The characters straddle the line between fantasy and reality, and escape from the care-free playground of the designer's mind. Growing up outside of Bangkok, the designer was surrounded by a yet-to-be developed kid's wonderland of jungle and nature. Being exposed early on to a variety of exotic flora and fauna, and the many different creatures that inhabit this environment developed his sense of whimsy and joy. These simple pleasures inspire his art—nothing heady or deep, just "Designs for a Joyous Life!"

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Stas Aki

DESIGNER: Stas Aki

PHOTOGRAPHY: Stas Aki

NATIONALITY: Russia

Life is consumption. People throw away days like used napkins. Day by day. The idea of connecting calendar and a pack of napkins came suddenly to the designer. He thought that calendar should be a functional object which people use every day in the ordinary life. The pack of napkins on the designer's table seemed to be the right thing to make a calendar of 365 days-365 napkins. The proper number for usual pack that people can buy in the market. Only one napkin per day. It's a kind of discipline, self-limitation, eco-mind in action. Use less, create more.

The calendar should represent Huggies brand philosophy and values. They imply joy, pleasure, and freedom of discovery of the wonderful world. Huggies allows a baby to walk easily through the life and ignores the "small problems" that might happen. The designers created an idea of two "baby's feet" that move along the page imitating the baby's steps and marking the current day. Every page shows simple things from which a baby starts to learn the world. That's how the designers expressed the freedom of motion and the process of baby's development. Every new day is a step forward.

The designers named the calendar with the text "year round" the zeros of 2010 relating to sports taking place in the centre, cycling, volleyball, archery... The days of the months of focus within the inner circles of white, red and holidays as well as the outer. They are looking for photographs unusual altering saturated colour, so that the whole is very striking. For external use 300-gram paper with rubberised finish, very comfortable to hold and silkscreen printing silver to contrast.

MOMA PERPETUAL CALENDAR

TITLE: MoMA Perpetual Calendar

DESIGN AGENCY: Dagan Design

PRODUCTION DATE: 2008

DESIGNER: Gideon Dagan

CLIENT: MoMA, The Museum of Modern Art, NY

PHOTOGRAPHY: MoMA, The Museum of Modern Art, NY

NATIONALITY: USA

Designed for The Museum of Modern Art, NY, This unique calendar can be used year after year. The calendar, placed on a desktop, or mounted on a wall, its string-tethered, seemingly gravity-defying ball, is suspended in midair, and manually moved to mark each month. A second magnetic ball on the horizontal beam indicates the day. Constructed of injected-molded ABS recyclable polymer and magnets. Inspired by magnetism and fascinated by the fact that it is a perpetual existing natural force, the designer experimented with different methods of suspending objects in mid air. The idea of the calendar popped up when he managed to suspend a string-tethered ball in mid air. He decided to create a useable object, rather than just a decorative one. The original large calendars were designed in 1998. The new small version was designed in 2008 to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the original. When the designer was requested to design the small version, he thought that this would be a simple straight forward job of scaling down the original design. After he assembled the first prototype, he noticed that the balls were jumping and not acting as before in the larger calendar. The proximity of the magnets to each other in this small size design, created a new magnetic field. After some modification and the addition of more magnets, this small calendar became more complex than the original, but he got it to work fine.

The Impeller Calendar, a self-promo for Hansen Belyea, delivers two messages to clients. The first is a global theme as each "paddle" of the impeller features a national holiday for a faraway country. The second is technical expertise. The engineering of the desktop calendar required a series of prototypes and laser die-cutting to get the pieces to lock together perfectly. The Impeller package consists of four parts. The mailing carrier is custom die-cut to wrap around the contents. A metallic copper label seals the packet. Inside, the interlocking calendar parts include six paddles and two central star hubs. Also inside is a cover card with the Impeller logo on the top side and assembly instructions with diagrams on the back.

The idea behind the projected calendar page was to make a calendar that fits on the "already crowded" work desk and yet serves the purpose. The calendar titled "Gauging Horizons" is independent of placement. It is designed such that it can be placed either vertically or horizontally. The blue coloured horizontal windows mark the slot for copper washer that will actually hold the pages of the calendar together. The calendar is the outcome of a beautiful confluence of colours and numbers. The use of silhouette for the background and typography for the numbers has no restricted specification. The artist prefers to keep it open for subjective perceptions, the same way as gauging the horizon!

2010 "ZAZODIACS" CALENDAR

NATIONALITY: Greece

The "zazodiacs" calendar uses its own metal packaging box as a presentation stand with help of two little magnets. Each month is an illustrated card based on the zodiac circle. The designers wanted to revive past beliefs that slowly die, and bring them back to life again. People could use a different visual of their star sign.

Like the DIY calendar, the wall calendar is a monthly calendar accompanied by a list. The simple and clean layout coincides with the uncluttered space of the organised individual.

TITLE: Bright and Cheerful Desk Calendar

DESIGN AGENCY: Colorstory Designs

PRODUCTION DATE: 2011

DESIGNER: Amy Gibson

PHOTOGRAPHY: Colorstory Designs

NATIONALITY: USA

The newest desk calendar design is a bright and cheerful way to view the new year! Each of the 12 months has an original, bright and cheerful design, printed clearly on heavy white cardstock. When the clear case is closed, the calendar is easy to transport, but when flipped open, the entire month is easy to view (like an easel). All 12 of the individual months fit neatly in the clear case when open or closed—so you won't lose any of the months not being used. As each new year comes, Colorstory Designs will have new design inserts that can be refills for the clear case.

TITLE: Antalis 2010

DESIGN AGENCY: Studiowill

PRODUCTION DATE: 2009

DESIGNER: Studiowill

CLIENT: Antalis (HK) Ltd.

NATIONALITY: Hong Kong, China

In order to design a practical on-desk calendar to promote Antalis' fancy paper and "Greening your business" concept. The designers innovated a new format of calendar, which can be used as a monthly mini schedule, but also an on-desk calendar. All monthly schedules were printed by different effects to show the reaction between ink and paper, and the information and diagrams show the positive concept and research of "two sides of paper". It educates the paper-buying public on the true facts so they can make informed choices and promote responsible paper use.

CLIENT: Jekyll & Hyde
NATIONALITY: Italy

365 dots (+1), one for each day in the year and seven more, one for each day in the week, form the essential elements to always know where you are. Felt-made in 200 copies only, this work progresses the research into the See Nothing project, this time connected with the time and how to measure it. Each calendar is completed by two epoxy-made pins. All the pins are unique as unique are the days in our singular lives.

To urge people to do something about saving the environment through everyday efforts, it had to be relevant and informative without preachy overtones of public service campaigns. A spoof on discount ads, a common feature in the Middle-East market, where the asterisks and fine print assume the importance of headline. In the calendar too a percentage was used, but was an eco-friendly tip expressed as a percentage of savings, with the fine print explaining the actual remedy. The treatment is an arrangement of everyday objects that surround a consumer's life.

Ink Systems is young aggressive company; they deal with lots of ink for printing systems. So, the designers were looking for unusual aggressive ink calendar. The solution is stencil set with all necessary ingredients. They call it "Ink Me". Calendar pack contains: cyan, magenta and yellow spray inks, three stencil layers, stickers with numbers, several types of 50x70 paper (including old wallpaper) and big craft paper sheet to work on it. You get custom 50x70 poster calendar at the end of a process. Of course you can use these stencils not only on paper from the pack. CLIENT: 360 Mall

PHOTOGRAPHY: Nizar Fawzi Alshorbagi

NATIONALITY: Bulgaria

During the holy month of Ramadan, Muslims follow a calendar for prayer. This calendar helps them keep track as to when a particular prayer has to be offered. 360 Mall, a high-end shopping mall in Kuwait provided its visitors with a free calendar for the same purpose. The designs used on this calendar were adapted from the various special branding done inside and outside the mall as well as many other collaterals. The calendar was printed on high quality light weight paper and was sized adequately to fit into any pocket.

RESOUND BLOCK: EVENT CALENDAR

TITLE: Resound Block: Event Calendar

PRODUCTION DATE: 2009

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Anton Kaldal / Daniel Björnsson

DESIGNER: Anton Kaldal

CLIENT: Hugmyndahús Haskólanna

NATIONALITY: Iceland

"Resound Block" is an event calendar with the alternative function of blocking resound within the space the calendar is in. The mission was to take the calendar out of its standard modern day archetype form while keeping its essential function. Commissioned by Hugmyndahús Haskólanna (a cluster for innovative start up companies in Iceland) the calendar is located in an indoor public area, a vast space full of resound that needed some kind of blocking. It is made of 215 wooden blocks which form seven columns which reference the form of the typographic ragged right text columns. Every column is colour coded and represents a specific month within the time period of July 2009 to January 2010. Each block then represents a day in the month and is marked with appropriate number. It managed to create a playful vibe in the raw indoor public space.

EVERLASTING ADHESIVE CALENDAR

NATIONALITY: Croatia

Everlasting Calendar is multi-functional adhesive tape which functions at the same time as organiser / planner / post-it / tape / sticker... It's limited only by its own length. You can create each month in any time by day & date combination of two separate rolls (different widths) and stick them together at any place you need (different surfaces, wall, table, toilet walls...). Calendar was produced as a promotional gift / Christmas card for Laboratorium clients and friends.

AN APPLE A DAY

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: David Weik

DESIGNER: David Weik

NATIONALITY: USA

A quick and easy way to stay in tip-top shape this year. Just peel the little variety sticker from every apple you eat and affix it to a square. Keep it interesting. Try a Belle De Boskoop, a Newtown Pippin, a Peasgood Nonsuch, or maybe a Turley Winesap.

2011 CALENDAR

TITLE: 2011 Calendar

PRODUCTION DATE: 2011

DESIGNER: Nina Radenkovic

NATIONALITY: Serbia

This is a personal artwork that the designer originally intended for herself, and as such hasn't been issued. The designer has decided it to stay non-profit. This is a wall calendar in the form of A2 format poster. It has been designed as a typographic solution to form a circle of dates. Days of the week are not labeled, but weekends are indicated with typographical characters in colour, which together form a circular range of colours. The calendar was inspired by minimalism, leaving space for personal adjustment so that users can draw and mark the dates, which is allowed by large areas of empty space. Ideal for business people who need an organiser. It fits in with modern interiors, and it's purposed to be held in the workspace. Typographic solution was inspired by Helvetica, which is exactly the typeface that is used in this project. The designer has been led by her needs, and they are consistent with the needs of dynamic and business people.

CALENDAR WITHOUT LETTERS

2011:

TITLE: Calendar without Letters
DESIGN AGENCY: Bastarda Studio
PRODUCTION DATE: 2010
DESIGNER: Vladislav Kulik
CLIENT: Bastarda Studio
PHOTOGRAPHY: Artyom Pasha
NATIONALITY: Ukraine

Silk-screen printed on a milk-white tracingpaper. Looks good on any wall because the colour and pattern of the surface are visible through the translucent calendar sheets. How to use it? It's very simple; the whole year ordered, from top to bottom. Every line is a single month. Saturdays and Sundays are marked with large digits. You could write and make notes through whole surface of this calendar. Pencil notes can be rubbed out by an ordinary eraser.

DESIGN AGENCY: Aleksander Shevchuk & 2many Project
PRODUCTION DATE: 2010
CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Aleksander Shevchuk
DESIGNER: Aleksander Shevchuk
CLIENT: SWMC (Sochi Winter Music Conference)
PHOTOGRAPHY: Aleksander Shevchuk
NATIONALITY: Russia

SWMC is a most popular festival in Russia dedicated to modern & club music. Sochi Winter Music Conference is held every year. Three days and four nights. Day for seminars and night for dance party. Night party is conducted in best clubs in Sochi, Russia. This year the designer was invited to do full branding of SWMC 2010. Speaking about re-branding for the conference was very cardinal in 2010. He has heavily modified the logo, as well as completely substrate, which is a bit abstract, a bit reminiscent of falling snow, especially if you look up on snow. Logo of the conference the designers did so that it was like the sound tumbler. Radial circles resemble the volume levels from minimum to maximum level. Therefore all well harmonise with the name of the festival.

WREATH

TITLE: Wreath
DESIGN AGENCY: Kring Design Studio
PRODUCTION DATE: 2010
DESIGNER: Bryan Kring
CLIENT: Produced for retail sale
NATIONALITY: USA

The art for this calendar began as a sun, which grew into a flower, and then blossomed into this organic wreath that is brimming with life. The detailed line work was drawn by hand and the graphic floral pattern was drawn on a computer. The combined art was printed on a hand-fed letterpress.

LIFE CALENDAR:

HOW WAS YOUR DAY?

TITLE: Life Calendar: How Was Your Day?

PRODUCTION DATE: 2010

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Raquel Catalan

DESIGNER: Raquel Catalan

CLIENT: Brigada Creativa

NATIONALITY: Spain

Life Calendar is a series of different calendars which highlights an aspect of life. "How was your day?" is the first of the series. The 365 days are represented by an emoticon that you have to draw as the day has gone (very good, good, regular, bad, very bad). A different way to know and evaluate your mood throughout the days. A simplified daily. The blue circles mark the beginning of each and every month and the yellow circles are for all of the other. This calendar is not for any specific year. You can start it when you want!

LIFE CALENDAR:

LOVE LIFE. DAY BY DAY

TITLE: Life Calendar: Love Life, Day by Day

PRODUCTION DATE: 2011

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Raquel Catalan

DESIGNER: Raquel Catalan

CLIENT: Brigada Creativa

NATIONALITY: Spain

Life Calendar is a series of different calendars which highlights an aspect of life. "Love Life, Day by Day" is the second of the series. The 365 days are represented by a heart divided into four parts: Time together, Conversation, Caress-Kisses and Sex. According to the activity you had with your couple every day, you must paint the piece of heart indicated. Thus, the more you paint the calendar red will mean more love in the couple. This calendar is not for any specific year. You can start it when you want!

FAILSAFE CALENDAR

TITLE: Failsafe Calendar

DESIGN AGENCY: Dmitry Maslov /
Marat Dzantuganov

PRODUCTION DATE: 2008

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Andrey Gubaydullin

ART DIRECTOR: Vladislav Derevyannykh

NATIONALITY: Russia

Failsafe calendar is a wall interactive project which looks like a big all-prize lottery ticket. Behind each of 365 scratch panels one can find jokes, recommendations, funny pictures, riddles and quizzes, Internet links as well as thoughts about life, friendship and love. What's more, it is meaningful, for it is connected to a certain historical moment of the date. Behind some panels there are surprises and presents received from clients of advertising agency "Voskhod". To make the scratching easier the calendar includes a free new 5-kopeck coin attached to the magnetic tape.

CALENDAR FOR TYPOGRAPHY 21

TITLE: Calendar for Typography 21
PRODUCTION DATE: 2008
DESIGNER: Aleksander Shevchuk
CLIENT: Typography 21 (Printing House)
PHOTOGRAPHY: Aleksander Shevchuk
NATIONALITY: Russia

Calendar has a six pop up figures and rigid cover with black metallic logo on both sides. It was released as a gift to clients' typography. The concept of the calendar came after watching the pop up books. It's an ideal idea for modern typography, and shows the full force of features. Calendar's catchword translated from Russian is: Full scale print. It lays down the principle of pop up book. The designer also applied fluor Pantone that seem more juicy in the light to give the calendar a great colour and emphasise the uniqueness of the printing press. Continuous development of the calendar lasted for about a month. Each figure was made individually. First, select the image; then construct a scheme for each figure. It took a lot of paper. First, details were cut with scalpel and layout knife; then all parts glue together with glue and adhesive tape. Second, the digital machine was used to print the image on heavy paper. And Only after it was collected as the final layout, the offset machine printed final images and made the typography's blades for cutting.

RESEARCH STUDIOS CALENDAR 2010

TITLE: Research Studios Calendar 2010

DESIGN AGENCY: Research Studios

PRODUCTION DATE: 2010

DESIGNER: Neville Brody / Nick Hard / James Nelson
/ James Le Beau-Morley / George
Sheldrake / Jeff Knowles

NATIONALITY: England

Hitting the offices, desks and doormats of the designers' clients, contacts and friends in early January, the designers wanted to give a sneak preview of the 2010 limited edition Research Studios' calendar. The brief this year was to experiment with pattern and type to create an artwork for the 12 months of the year and involved Neville Brody alongside designers from the London, Paris, Barcelona and Berlin studios. The calendar carries forward the designers' passion for type and experimentation with it into 2010.

Research Studios

This limited edition 2010 Research Studios' calendar stems from the collective passion we have for type and experimentation with it. It is a passion which lies at the very heart of our studio.

2010 saw Neville Brody and the Research Studios' design team create a significant new body of bespoke or adapted fonts for a spectrum of different clients some of which are featured on the opposite page.

We are carrying this spirit into 2010 with a renewed energy to re-invigorate our FUSE publications and conferences as well as making the fonts we create more commercially available.

This calendar is the beginning of that journey which we wanted to share with you.

CHRONO-SHREDDER

TITLE: Chrono-Shredder

PRODUCTION DATE: 2007-2010

DESIGNER: Susanna Hertrich

PHOTOGRAPHY: Susanna Hertrich

NATIONALITY: Germany

Chrono-Shredder is a poetic time object that reminds us of the volatility of the "now". This hybrid object combines functions of a calendar and a clock and so shreds every single day in real-time. All that time that is irreversibly lost gets a tangible existence in form of shredded paper. As time passes by, the tattered remains of the past pile up under the device. Thus, Chrono-Shredder stimulates a personal reflection on the use of one's lifetime.

Almost Extinct

Every day, hundreds of endangered species
get closer to extinction.
By working together,
we can help save them.

ALMOST EXTINCT

TITLE: Almost Extinct

DESIGN AGENCY: The Chase

PRODUCTION DATE: 2010

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Oliver Maltby

DESIGNER: Chris Challinor / Rebecca Low / Dulcie Cowling /
Adam Cartwright

CLIENT: BBC Wildlife Fund

NATIONALITY: England

Almost Extinct is an awareness campaign to help the BBC Wildlife Fund raise funds to help threatened wildlife and places. By crossing off endangered species every day, the calendar highlights the species that are getting closer to extinction.

CATS LET NOTHING DARKEN THEIR ROAR CALENDAR 2011

TITLE: Cats Let Nothing Darken Their Roar Calendar 2011

DESIGN AGENCY: Studio Noa Bembibre

PRODUCTION DATE: 2010

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Noa Bembibre

DESIGNER: Noa Bembibre

CLIENT: Studio Noa Bembibre

NATIONALITY: Finland

For six years, the calendar Cats Let Nothing Darken Their Roar has introduced new, odd, and strange phrases every month. Designed by Noa Bembibre, it started in 2006 with 30 modest copies, to over a million in 2007, in a special edition for Finland's daily newspaper Helsingin Sanomat, to a limited edition of 500 copies ever since. This calendar, already in its sixth edition, hides and highlights months' names within words. The resulting phrases are obscure, witty, thought provoking. Printed in quality white stock with its signature ribbon binding. Presented in a silver printed envelope, this year the calendar also includes a practical pencil, custom made by Varco in Portugal.

2010 DIE CUT WALL CALENDAR

TITLE: 2010 Die Cut Wall Calendar

DESIGNER: Chris Page

NATIONALITY: England

A calendar consisting of thirteen loose sheets, one die cut date sheet and twelve coloured month sheets. Each month sheet displays monthly events and indicates the Monday of each week. The numbers 0, 4, 8 and 9 are difficult to portray as the front of the calendar is die cut. To solve this problem the counter form of these numbers were printed on each month sheet. When both the date and month sheets are placed together the numbers are complete, which in turn gives each month its own graphical interest when viewed separately. Two bulldog clips hold all sheets together.

WORDS OF A STREET POET CALENDAR

TITLE: Words of a Street Poet Calendar
PRODUCTION DATE: 2007
CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Rosario Martinez-Cañas
DESIGNER: Juan Camilo Rojas
NATIONALITY: Colombia

Words of a Street Poet Calendar was designed based on a set of 12 poems taken from a book titled Memories from a Street Poet by Burton Rosenburgh. The idea was to take poems individually and interpret them typographically!

TUBERCULOSIS 3D-TEST

TITLE: Tuberculosis 3D-Test

DESIGN AGENCY: Advertising Association Voskhod

PRODUCTION DATE: 2009

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Andrey Gubaydullin

ART DIRECTOR: Vladislav Derevyannykh

DESIGNER: Igor Yacuk / Dmitry Izotov / Tatyana Dorofeevas

CLIENT: Masterpharm

NATIONALITY: Russia

"Diaskintest" is a medical product for diagnosing tuberculosis at the early stages with accuracy to 98%. Calendar is based on the concept of children's game "Find Wally". Each of 12 months is a comprehensive illustration with many objects and characters among which there's a little monster hidden that resembles tubercule bacillus. Attached to each calendar there are Diaskintest branded 3-D glasses. With those glasses on the holder of the calendar one can spot the bad guy immediately because the pictured character becomes three-dimensional. Thus, in such a game-like manner the designers bring the idea that it is much easier to detect tuberculosis with the help of "Diaskintest" than using out-of-date methods.

DESIGN AGENCY: The Chase
PRODUCTION DATE: 2006
CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Ben Casey
DESIGNER: Stuart Price
CLIENT: Manchester Dogs Home
NATIONALITY: England

2006 just happened to be the Chinese Year of the Dog. So for Manchester Dogs' Home, the designers asked calligrapher, Peter Horridge, to create some Chinese dog characters and held the whole thing together with a bulldog clip.

DESIGN AGENCY: Studio Dorogaya
PRODUCTION DATE: 2010
DESIGNER: Sergiy Chebotaryov
CLIENT: GfK Ukraine
NATIONALITY: Ukraine

GfK is an international market research organisation. For Ukrainian division of GfK, the designers have created an interactive calendar. Packed in a mat black wooden box. Calendar page illustrations are diagrams, formed as shooting targets. Interactive part of this calendar is two sets of dart arrows (three cyan and three magenta coloured, representing male and female auditory). So, you can literally hit the target group. Gold Prize Award at Kiev International Advertising Festival in 2010; Category: Communication Design. Bronze Prize Award at Kiev International Advertising Festival in 2010; Category: Graphic Design.

TITLE: Fashion Made Me Hardcore Calendar 2010

DESIGN AGENCY: Spiros Halaris

PRODUCTION DATE: 2010

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Spiros Halaris

DESIGNER: Spiros Halaris

NATIONALITY: Greece

The project required the making of a calendar for the forthcoming year. The designer incorporated the theme of fashion including fashion illustrations for each month of the year. It is all in black and white and he let the lines and the illustrations do all the talk. It is clean and minimal and each month's illustration has a different feeling.

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: 5thFloor
DESIGNER: 5thFloor
CLIENT: 5thFloor
PHOTOGRAPHY: Niklas Sandstorm
NATIONALITY: Finland

5th Floor 2010 is a limited edition poster collection consisting of twelve individual pieces. Each poster is a personal view of a certain month. The posters form a calendar for the year 2010 but the quality and value are the equivalent of twelve handmade serigraphy (silk-screen) prints. Each one of the 200 copies available is signed and numbered.

DESIGN AGENCY: Andrew Clark

PRODUCTION DATE: 2010

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Andrew Clark

DESIGNER: Andrew Clark

CLIENT: Adobe Inc

PHOTOGRAPHY: Andrew Clark

NATIONALITY: England

This design is a promotional calendar for Adobe Inc. The concept behind this is that the calendar would play off the creative nature of the product that is being promoted. Each month a different problem-solving challenge is presented, with the idea for that each day of the year there is a new problem to be solved, therefore helping the client use their creative juices every day.

EXPERIENCE CALENDAR

TITLE: Experience Calendar

PRODUCTION DATE: 2008

CREATIVE DIRECTOR: Sven Voelker

(Mentoring Professor)

DESIGNER: Matthias Fritsch / Marko Grewe /

Saskia Hohengarten / Felix Vorreiter

CLIENT: Lions Club Karlsruhe-Turmberg

PHOTOGRAPHY: Marco Grewe / Felix Vorreiter

NATIONALITY: Germany

The Experience Calendar is for kids aged approximately four to ten and their families. The calendar features funny games, interesting information, gags, and many surprises. Every month has a specific topic and every day contains a little surprise, task or piece related to the monthly topic. By picking out the 7cm circle cards the monthly theme is also transforming its appearance. It's like an all-year advent calendar with 365 "doors" to open: in June kids can discover how larvae become butterflies. In September an empty car-park is filled with imaginative vehicles while the children learn important traffic signs. In December, they can make their own Christmas-tree decoration. The calendar is dateless and can therefore be used again and again.
